Since the launch of his company almost 10 years ago, Scott McLeod, President of Fleetman Consulting Inc., has been focused on growing his business by providing clients across Western Canada with unmatched customer service in addition to high-value, time-tested forklift and warehouse equipment products.

Scott believes that finding knowledgeable people who know how to deliver top-notch customer service by executing on the basics exceptionally well has become very hard to find in today's digital age. “This is where we shine,” according to Scott.

You may remember talking with Scott at the recent 2018 WRLA show (booth #425).

Fleetman Consulting Inc. was launched in September of 2008 after Scott's long career where he was employed in the capacity of Vice President, Sales & Marketing for nearly 20 years by a multi-line forklift dealership (Williams Machinery LP). “Starting this business and watching it grow has been incredibly satisfying. I'm very lucky to have such great clients” says Scott. “More experienced materials handling equipment professionals should break out on their own and give it a try if they think they have what it takes,” he adds.

Fleetman specializes in selling a wide array of useful and money-saving forklift products and warehouse equipment, all of which have been carefully chosen based on Scott's 30+ years in the industry.

Some businesses may not be aware that Fleetman Consulting Inc. also provides their clients with a long list of very unique but proven, independent forklift consulting services that have received “5 Star” reviews from some very well-recognized companies in the building supply business and beyond. If you are interested in finding new ways of lowering your forklift acquisition costs on new and/or used forklifts, if you are curious about how to lower your forklift maintenance costs or if you have other forklift issues that need to be solved, Fleetman Consulting Inc. might just be the company for you. They can also help you track and control forklift maintenance costs using their unique strategies, techniques and exclusive forklift maintenance cost tracking software. You might be surprised how many profit dollars can be found just by taking a closer look at your forklift fleet.
